Collecting Under the Radar

Tomorrow's Antiques

Michael Hogben and Linda Abrams

Last spring’s outstanding guide to tomorrow’s antiques is now available in a classy paperback with flaps. This is the time to appreciate hidden value.

What critics are saying about the hard-cover:

“Some books are immediately valuable. Collecting Under the Radar is such a book. It presents important information with appealing photos in an outstanding, uncluttered design. Here is a book that makes other books on collectables look . . . well, kind of antique.”
—Mid-American Books

“Hogben and Abrams are indispensable guides to finding hidden treasures.” —Journal of Antique & Collectables

“Don’t throw out another thing before you read Collecting under the Radar. In tough economic times it’s important to know what things are worth—and this book tells you. It’s the best comprehensive guide to finding secret treasures in attics.” —Antiques Magazine

“A great read for anyone who is starting to collect or is already a collector.” —Antiques & Collectibles

New York based Linda Abrams, a feature news TV producer and writer, covers the American collectible scene. She is also the author of VANITY, The Art of Looking Good.

Michael Hogben, star of “Auction Man” and BBC’s “Bargain Hunt” is a veteran antiques auctioneer and appraiser, based in the English countryside.

3D Pavement Art

Birgit Krols

3D pavement art represent a new way of combining the mastery of Renaissance art techniques with the ephemeral qualities of street art. Artists like Edgar Müller and Tracy Lee Stum create street art that's so incredible it is almost impossible to pass by without being sucked in to the worlds they create on asphalt.

Birgit Krols worked as a journalist for 10 years before venturing into the world of books. As a film journalist she earned a living interviewing movie stars, until she was asked to help found a city magazine of which she later became editor-in-chief. In 2006 she started writing books for Tectum Publishers.

Accidental Inventions

That Changed the World

Birgit Krols

As anyone with a knack for clichés knows, necessity is the mother of invention. However, it could also be said that while good inventions are often the product of necessity, great inventions are accidental. Accidental Inventions is filled to the brim with examples of unintentional discoveries that too often we find ourselves taking for granted.

Science & Islam A History

Ehsan Masood

One of history's least-known yet fertile periods in science is the extraordinary Islamic scientific revolution between 700 and 1400 AD.

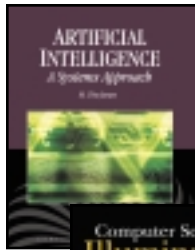

Al-Khwarizmi, for instance, developed algebra in 9th-century Baghdad; and ibn-Sina's textbook, Canon of Medicine was a standard work in Europe's universities until the 1600s. The story of these and other scientists is woven into a compelling narrative, taking the reader on a journey through the Islamic empires of the middle ages that made this revolution possible, and its contribution to science in Western culture.

Magical Greece

Eleni Gage and Andreas Smaragdis

"Wherever I go, Greece wounds me" the Nobel-prize-winning poet George Seferis wrote. Andreas Smaragdis' photos serve as a balm to that wound, by preserving an image of a beloved landscape and offering a hint of what the photographer calls "the ecstasy of place." This bilingual (English/Greek) book, then, is a flirtation, meant to invite the reader to venture onto miracle ground. A vertebrate album for Greece, with the exceptional text by Eleni Gage, for the following themes: In the Water, On the Land, Beneath the Sky, Towards Divinity, With the People.

Eleni Gage has written about Greece for publications ranging from Elle to Travel-Leisure to the New York Sun, which published her five part series of cultural commentary on the 2004 Olympics. Now a New York-based freelance journalist and instructor of writing composition at Columbia University, Eleni studied Folklore and Mythology at Harvard and received a Master of Fine Arts in Creative Writing from Columbia. Andreas Smaragdis was born in Crete. For 10 years he taught photography in AKTO, one of the most prestigious photography schools in Athens. Since then, he has organized three personal exhibitions and participated in eight group ones. Twelve of his albums have been printed and published in Greece, the Balkans and the Middle East.

Sanliurfa City Guide

Adem Akinci

Providing a deep religious history of the region accompanied by factual information on significant sites in the city, this in-depth travel resource focuses on a lesser-known center of trade and culture in Turkey—Sanliurfa, or “Urfa” for short. Known as the “city of prophets,” the guide outlines Urfa’s numerous religious sites that are frequented by tourists year round, including the cave in which the prophet Abraham was born; Fish Lake, where Abraham was thrown into the fire; the cave where Job was cured from his illness; and the tomb of Elisha. Focusing on the aspects of the city that appeal to the Abrahamic religions, this fascinating manual describes in detail many of the famous ancient monuments in Urfa, including numerous mosques and churches.

Adem Akinci is a writer and a longtime resident of Sanliurfa, Turkey.

National Parks

The American Experience, Fourth Edition

Alfred Runte

This broad survey of the development of the national parks in the United States begins with the thesis that the first parks were established not in the name of environmental protection, but rather out of a sense of nationalism. Park boundaries were often dictated by commercial interests, since the concept of the “ecosystem” didn’t fully evolve until the twentieth century. In this lavishly illustrated book well-known environmental historian Alfred Runte, a prominent figure on the Ken Burns documentary “The National Parks: America’s Best Idea,” tells the highly engaging story of the development of our national parks, from the first national park, Yellowstone, to the more recent decision to set aside vast tracts of Alaska for preservation.

Alfred Runte received his Ph.D. from the University of California–Santa Barbara and is the author of Yosemite: Embattled Wilderness, Trains of Discovery: Western Railroads and the National Parks, and Allies of the Earth: Railroads and the Soul of Preservation. He lives in Seattle, Washington.

The Secrets of the Cheese Syndicate

Donna St. Cyr

Robert Montasio did not think his day could get any worse until his sister drinks a bizarre soda that causes her to start shrinking. Robert's only hope is a mysterious organization known as the Secret Cheese Syndicate. Unfortunately, they cannot help without a special cheese that has been lost for years. Now, with a tiny little sister in his pocket, Robert has to travel the world to find the Mystic Cheese of Eliki and, perhaps, discover secrets from his family's past.

Born and raised in South Louisiana, Donna St. Cyr divides her writing time between freelance writing for magazines and educational publishers and working on novels and picture books. She currently lives in Baton Rouge with her husband and three children.

The Boy & His Mud Horses

& Other Stories from the Tipi

Told and Illustrated by Paul Goble,
Foreword by Albert White Hat, Sr.

“Imagine that you are sitting on buffalo robes in the tipi, with the fire at the center casting flickering shadows on the painted lining behind you. Someone places a glowing coal in front of the storyteller. He rubs his hands in the smoke, and passing them over his head and body, he purifies himself. The Star People looking down through the smoke hole will be witness to the truth of the stories he will tell. . . .” With this powerful imagery begins Paul Goble’s new masterpiece, The Boy & His Mud Horses. Readers young and old will delight to learn how the Cheyenne began to hunt buffalo; how the Blackfoot made peace with the Shoshone; and the cautionary tale of the man who betrayed his wife. These 27 traditional stories from many different Native American tribes, including the Pawnee, Cheyenne, Blackfoot, and Lakota, are all masterfully brought to life by Goble’s award-winning illustrations.

Paul Goble is an award-winning author and illustrator of over 40 children’s books. His book, The Girl Who Loved Wild Horses won the prestigious Caldecott Medal. He lives with his wife in Rapid City, SD. Albert White Hat, Sr., a member of the Rosebud Sioux Tribe of South Dakota, is a Lakota linguist, educator, and author. A nationally respected tribal leader, Mr. White Hat has provided Lakota translations for many Hollywood movies, including Dances with Wolves. He lives in St. Francis, SD.

Trouble in Troublesome Creek

Nancy Kelly Allen
Illustrated by K. Michael Crawford

Readers of The Munched-up Flower Garden, the first volume in the green “Troublesome Creek” series, may recall the quiet boy of color, James. This time, he becomes the hero of Troublesome Creek when he discovers the legacy of a long-ago war that is killing the fish in the stream and poisoning the Troublesome Creek gang’s swimming hole. This is a down-home, environmental whodunit with a happy, kids-take-charge ending.

Nancy Kelly Allen is a former elementary school teacher and librarian who lives in a log cabin (built by her grandfather) in Hazard, Kentucky. A stream runs through it, called Troublesome Creek. Although the diverse gang represents the make-up of Hazard’s citizenry today, the rest is fiction. K. Michael Crawford, a prizewinning illustrator with over two-dozen children’s books to her credit, lives on a Maryland farm.

Foster and That Bad, B.A.D.D. Bully

Jil Ross

Illustrated by Gwendolyn Pruitt

Foster's mom announces that she is going to give him 4 VIP tickets to attend a sporting event that's coming to town. The tickets include free entrance, VIP seating, and meals. Foster invites his three closest friends, Lafi, Adam, and Kevin, as his guests. The boys are excited.

Foster's friend Kevin tells the boys about a bully who has recently been expelled from his school. A boy by the name of Barlow Aldwin Derrick Darden, aka B.A.D.D.

On the night of the event a bully is hiding out in the parking lot and tries to steal the tickets from Foster. Foster fights the bully and keeps his tickets. Because it's dark Foster does not get a clear picture of the bully's face.

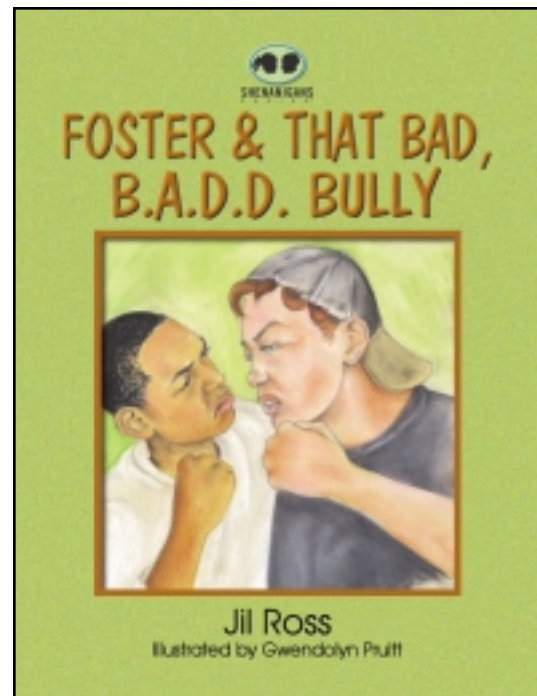

When Foster opens up his locker to find it full of someone else's belongings, he goes to his teacher to complain. She introduces him to the new boy who just transferred to his school—the bully.

Although Foster does not recognize the bully right away, the bully recognizes Foster and has it out for him. The bully terrorizes the school by stealing, taunting the students, disrupting the class... and finally vandalizing cars. Foster is no fighter but chooses not to stand by and allow his school to be victimized by B.A.D.D.

B.A.D.D. ultimately pays a big price for his bad decisions and the school is again at peace.

Foster the Mummy!

Jil Ross

Illustrated by Gwendolyn Pruitt

Another Monday rolls around with Foster sitting in homeroom. He hears his homeroom teacher, Ms. Princeton say something that catches his attention—the announcement about auditions for this year’s school play, “The Life and Times of King Tut.” As soon as he gets home from school, he begins practicing the poem he intends to recite from his book “Mr. Marble.”

Foster practices his poem day and night. Once the audition arrives, he is so anxious and consumed with memorizing the words of the poem that when Ms. Princeton asks him to name the current president, he exclaims, “Mr. Marble!” resulting in a laughing uproar in class. Ms. Princeton is furious and summons Foster to detention. After completing detention, he rushes to the auditorium, gets on stage, stands underneath the spotlight and forgets his lines.

On the following Monday, to his surprise, Foster finds out that he did make the play. He makes his sister promise not to tell the family that he’s a mummy in the play. She forgets and tells all of them that Foster’s a dummy (by accident) and gets the adults in an uproar. Ultimately they find out that he is a mummy, not a dummy. His sister then gets a lecture on keeping promises and spreading incorrect information.

Marie Plays Homeless

Jil Ross

Illustrated by Gwendolyn Pruitt

Marie, her father, and brother were out running errands. Marie asks her father to give her extra allowance to purchase a particular doll that she wants. Her father is not going to “give” her money but that he would think of something she could do to earn money. This answer is not satisfactory to Marie and she begins to think of various ways to make the money.

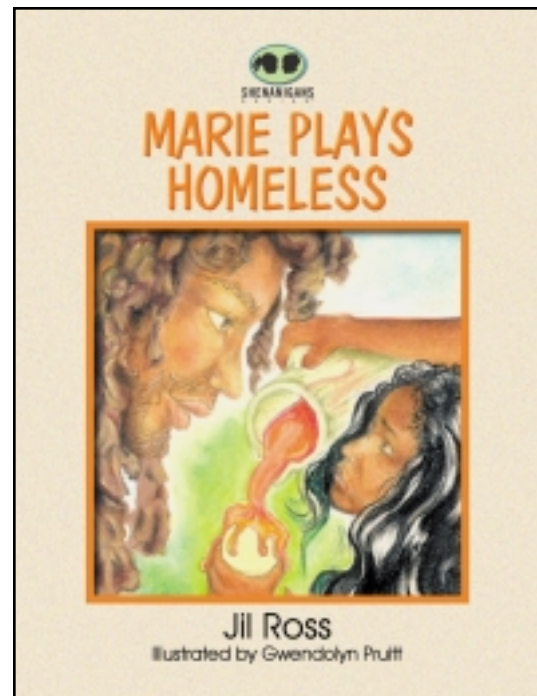

When Marie notices a man standing holding a sign that reads “HOMELESS WILL WORK FOR FOOD,” she gets an idea. While her father is grocery shopping, she transforms herself into a wild child, writes a note and stands in front of the grocery store soliciting people for money. The sign reads “PLEASE GIVE MONEY TO FEED THE HOMELESS CHILDREN.”

After collecting more than enough money to purchase the doll, her father comes out of the store and catches Marie in the act. Both Marie and her brother have to complete community service resulting in volunteer work serving breakfast at a homeless shelter. During the community service Marie has a chance to talk to the man she had initially seen on the street holding the homeless sign, and they talk about how he became homeless. She now understands his predicament.

When the manager of the homeless shelter offers Marie a doll as a “thank you” gift, she declines it and asks that instead he returns the doll and puts the money into a fund to feed more homeless people.

Belle

The Amazing, Astonishingly Magical Journey of An Artfully Painted Lady

Mary Lee Corlett
Illustrated by Lisa Farrell

What if a painted butterfly, who'd been quietly hovering over a beautiful white poppy in a seventeenth-century Dutch still life for three hundred years, suddenly found herself flying out of her picture? So begins the adventures of Belle. Accidentally dislodged when the museum staff drop the painting, Belle and her sidekick Brimstone, a moth, must find their way back "home." When their painting rolls into an elevator without them, their journey begins. Because they are made of paint, they discover that they can blend into any of the other paintings in the museum. They travel through the galleries, morphing into and out of paintings while searching for their painting and avoiding becoming lunch for a painted bird who, released from another painting by an awkward bump from Brimstone, is in hot pursuit.

Mary Lee Corlett is an art historian and a research associate and Lisa Farrell is an artist and a graphic designer at the National Gallery of Art. Mary lives in Falls Church, VA and Lisa in Washington, D.C. and Provincetown, MA.

Many Hands

A Penobscot Indian Story

Angeli Perrow
Illustrated by Heather Austin

Why does everyone keep telling Lily that "many hands make the basket"? Didn't she make the basket with her very own hands? It is the most beautiful basket of her 12-year-old life and no one will give her the credit she deserves. In the end, she learns a valuable lesson about pride and the spirit of community. Into the story is woven the process of basket making and a Wabanaki animal legend, as well as some words of the Penobscot language.

An elementary school teacher, Angeli Perrow has also worked as a reporter, photographer, and assistant editor of The Katahdin Times newspaper. She has published three children's books and lives with her family in Hampden, Maine. A Maine native, Heather Austin wrote and illustrated the children's books Visiting Aunt Sylvia's and Boatyard Ducklings, both based upon her childhood experiences in Maine. A graduate of Gould Academy in Bethel, Maine, Austin received her Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from the Rhode Island School of Design. She spent 10 years teaching art in the Holden and Eddington, Maine, schools. She now resides with her husband, two children, and two cats in Dallas, Georgia.

Dinosaurs on the Move

Movable Paper Figures to Cut, Color, and Assemble

Cathy Diez-Luckie

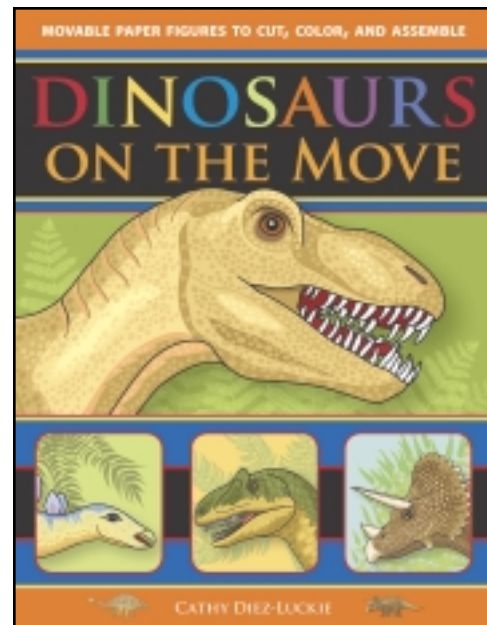

There's a new way for teachers, parents, and grandparents to introduce and reinforce the wonder of natural history and inspire a love of paleontology with hands-on activities for children ages 6 to 12. This creative learning tool features detailed illustrations of prehistoric dinosaurs based on authentic fossils and skeletons. Each dinosaur comes in an easy-to-assemble pre-colored and colorable version. Assembly key included. Detailed facts on each dinosaur adds to the learning fun.

Now children can make movable dinosaur action figures! Prehistoric times will come to life with extraordinary dinosaurs including Allosaurus, Ankylosaurus, Baryonyx, Brachiosaurus, Parasaurolophus, Stegosaurus, Triceratops, Tyrannosaurus Rex, and others. The sturdy dinosaur action figures are printed on cardstock for hours of creative play.

Move their jaws, clash their teeth, make their powerful legs run! Children can act out their own dinosaur battles—or make up stories about these mighty carnivores and herbivores that ruled the planet.

Which dinosaur weighed over 2000 pounds but had a brain the size of a walnut? What's the tail of an Ankylosaurus made from? Why does the Baryonyx have very large hook-like claws on its front legs? Which dinosaur was one of the largest meat eaters to ever walk the earth? Learn amazing facts about each dinosaur and read about where their fossils have been discovered, their size and weight, and where they lived, right in this book.

Cathy Diez-Luckie brings the study of science and history alive with engaging hands-on activities for children. Her art has appeared nationally and internationally in numerous illustrated reference books, children's books, and magazines. She is also the author and illustrator of the awarding winning children's activity book Famous Figures of Ancient Times: Movable Paper Figures to Cut, Color, and Assemble. Trained at the Toledo Museum of Art and the Academy of Art University in San Francisco, Diez-Luckie also holds a graduate degree from Stanford University. She lives in Oakland, California with her husband and children, who happily test-drive her moveable figure prototypes.

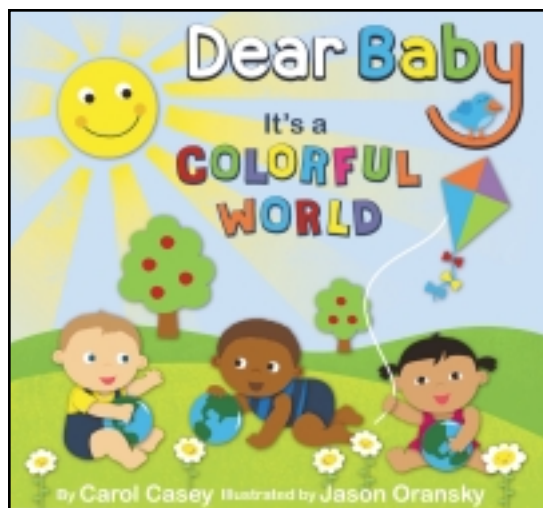

FIGURES IN MOTION

Dear Baby, It's a Colorful World

Carol Casey, Illustrated by Jason Oransky

A cast of endearingly drawn multicultural babies make their way through blazing bright landscapes to learn how to appreciate all the beautiful colors in nature. The gorgeous saturated hues and simple mood-invoking poems help children learn how to recognize and name colors. In a gentle message on diversity a question is asked: "What happens if color goes away? Wouldn't the world look gloomy and grey?" The ending brings together all the colors of the book and the entire cast of babies to reassure that "Lucky children. Lucky world. Beautiful color is here to stay."

This is the third collaboration for author Carol Casey and illustrator Jason Oransky who both live in the Atlanta area. Ms. Casey is a Chicago native but has made her home in the south for the last 15 years. She previously worked in broadcast media and as a fundraiser for local charities. Mr. Oransky is a lead graphic artist for children's apparel giant Carter, Inc. and is a loyal alum of Florida State University. He is an active participant in an Atlanta Mentoring Program.

Diary of a Chess Queen

Alexandra Kosteniuk

Women's World Chess Champion Alexandra Kosteniuk chronicles her rise to the top of the chess world in this introspective autobiographical work. Drawing from personal diaries kept during her youth, Kosteniuk takes the reader from the very dawn of her career as a child star in Russia, through triumph and disappointment, and finally to the pinnacle of success on the black-and-white battlefield. Along the way, we are treated to much more than an inside look into how a grandmaster approaches the royal game: we also learn the unique challenges posed to a young woman pulled at once by the diverging demands of professional chess, the glamour of the modeling lifestyle, and the joys of love and family life.

Part memoir and travelogue, part game collection, Diary of a Chess Queen features a selection of 64 annotated games.

Fashion model, wife and mother, Alexandra Kosteniuk became the female European chess champion in 2004 and the Russian chess women's titleholder in 2005, then prevailed in the final match for the women's world championship in 2008. She lives in Key Biscayne, FL.

A Case for the Divinity of Jesus

Examining the Earliest Evidence

Dean L. Overman

"A book for readers willing to wrestle with the largest questions." —Booklist Starred Review

Whether Jesus was really the Son of God or not is a central question for Christians—and one that has provoked heated debate since the time of Jesus' birth. Dean L. Overman examines the earliest Christian records to build a compelling case for the divinity of Jesus. Overman analyzes often-overlooked evidence from liturgies and letters written in the years immediately following Jesus' death—decades earlier than the Gnostic gospels or the New Testament gospels.

Dean L. Overman is former senior partner of the international law firm Winston & Strawn. A former Templeton scholar at Oxford University in religion, information theory, and physics, he has also studied theology at Princeton Theological Seminary and Harvard University. He is the author of A Case for the Existence of God, and A Case Against Accident and Self-Organization.

As Long as Space Endures

Essays on the Kalacakra Tantra in Honor of the Dalai Lama

Edited by Edward A. Arnold on behalf of Namgyal Monastery Institute of Buddhist Studies

The Kalacakra Tantra—Kalacakra means “wheel of time”—is a tradition of Buddhist theory and practice whose root text treats a fantastic expanse of knowledge ranging from observations of the cosmos to investigations of meditative states and vital bodily energies. In the Tibetan-speaking world, a public Kalacakra initiation remains the most sought-after event in the life of a devout Buddhist. The Fourteenth Dalai Lama has long had a strong connection with the Kalacakra Tantra and brought the initiation to the West in 1981, performing it in the U.S., Switzerland, Spain, and Australia. This volume has been created to celebrate his long involvement with the Kalacakra teachings.

Olympic Dream
The Pain and Glory of Figure Skating
Pénélope Barbe

This tale is about love, adventure, risk and the harsh world of Olympic figure skating. The story of Justin Bell and Chantal Loyer is an example of hard work, determination, and unconditional love. Olympic Dream reveals the inner-workings and corruption within figure skating and other popular Olympic sports.

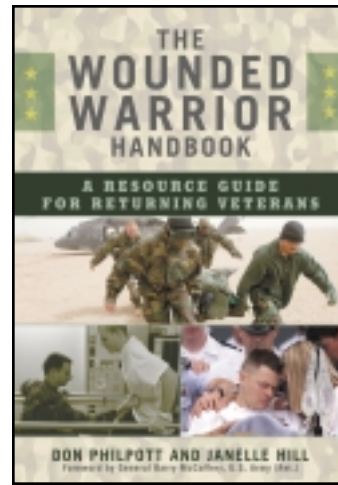

Discover the unjust and surreal universe that these two high performance athletes from Australia and Canada experienced. Bell and Loyer also expose the truth behind the careers of the skating world's most successful personalities, such as former Australian champion Anthony Liu, former Technical Director of Figure Skating Canada Barbara Graham, and dancing duo Isabelle and Paul Duchesnay, who were caught in one of the most sordid Olympic tales of all time. From fleeting glory to broken dreams, this book uncovers how athletes can be rejected by their country, their peers, and the media when they are forced to give up their lifelong Olympic aspirations.

Montreal-based author Pénélope Barbe knows the figure skating world from the inside, having competed in that sport for almost a decade.

Behind the Bell

Dustin Diamond

Hollywood might represent another side of the American Dream, but to many it often embodies a true nightmare, especially for young actors. Dustin Diamond is best known for his character Samuel “Screech” Powers in the late ‘80s and ‘90s on the long-running American TV teen sitcom “Saved by the Bell” (SBTB). Diamond’s new book gives readers the disheartening story of an ex-child star. Dustin faced serious challenges moving his career beyond his comic role as the smart, funny, and endearing nerd of Bayside High School on the show that made him an audience favorite. Through his eyes, we uncover Hollywood’s myths and see what happens when the lights go out and career expectations are shattered. Dustin also reveals how working as a child actor on “SBTB” created emotional turmoil that hurt his life at home and his future. For the first-time, Diamond presents the inside story of the young cast from “Saved by the Bell” that the viewing public thought were so lucky . . .
